H.R. 6091 & S. 1928

Directs the transfer to National Archives of any records that have been in existence for more than 50 years and are of permanent value.

This bill will not effect this Agency for several years because:

1. None of the permanent records of this Agency is over 15 years old (including records transferred from predecessor agencies)

2. Any records we may now have that are over 50 years old are the result of a collection (not generated) and consequently are of temporary value. These records will be covered by Records Control Schedules for eventual destruction.

3. Records transferred to this Agency from other Agencies or the Federal Records Center are transferred in accordance with Title 3, G.S.A. Regulations. The restrictions and use of such records are covered by the transfer agreement which must be approved by National Archives as well as the transferring Agency
